Their Majesties' Garden Party.

On Priday evening last a garden party was Our hand and exceed the seal of Our given in the grounds of Iolani Palace by the (Seal Kingdom to be affixed this 29th day King and Queen, in henor of the happy termination of the Treaty negotiations, which may be characterized as a complete success. On entering the gate shortly before eight o'clock, we were surprised at the unexpected brilliancy of the score. The whole extent of the large and well-kept park was lighted up with inno merable terches, candelabra and colored lanterns, which transformed the place into a veritable fairly-land. The night was still, the breeze being just sufficient to be noticeable in the fiames of the torches, and the crescent moon hung over the tree-tops in the western sky, ever and snon concealed for a moment among the fieecy masses of cloud. All about the central fountain were hung large numbers of lanterns of all the hues of the rainbow, and a short distance back of it was erected a platform enclosed with curtains, and surmounted with the motto "By Commerce we Live," and also by permants bearing the names of the various telands of the group. At about eight o'clock the curtains were raised, disclosing two subiscur executs, which, considering the brief time allowed for their preparation, merited the highest commendation and praise. That on the right consisted of a female figure draped in the stars and stripes representing the Genius of the United States inviting Hawaii to participate in the benefits of free trade. The sableon on the left was a fine representation of the Hawaiian coat of arms. These pictures were brilliantly illuminated by red and blue lights, and were on exhibition for at least twenty minutes. We learn that during this period one of the kalihi bearers standing by the side of the shield was severely burned by the heat from a red light which was placed in too great contiguity to his legs, but the heroic fellow, like Monteruma on his "bed of roses," or the placky Spartan boy who stole the fox, never uttered a groun or moved a muscle till the curtain fell. In the course of the evening His Majesty quietly carried into effect a little surprise which he had prepared for Mr. Peirce the American Minister Resident. Calling him into one of the reception rooms which just then happened to be nearly empty of guests, and accompanied only by his ministers and staff, His Majesty addressed him as follows: FOCE EXCELENCY . It is usual to make the interchange of Treaties an economic of giving some taken of compliants to e present representing the friendly doubley. The United States of America do not exchange compiler

The loan bill was read and passed after a debate protracted needlessly by a few members. The property tax bill passed on its third reading with an amendment which increases the tax from a half of one per cent, to three quarters of one per cent, on all real and personal property -an increase of fifty per cent.

On Friday a bill to compel the sale of goverament property by public auction passed its third reading. The old time bill to make the Hawaiian language the standard where differencies may exist in the two versions of the laws, was carried by a large vote. A bill to regulate the sale of drugs and medicines in the interest of druggists, and most decidedly against the best interests of the people, was unceremoniously disposed of on

The Hon. Mr. Kani, in answer to the charge made by His Excellency that Mr. Kani had by his influence laid grievous burdens upon the people, said : That he was surprised to hear such a charge from the source from whence it came; that the burdens laid upon the people in the form of taxation came from the Ministers; that but for his (Mr. Kaai's) influence the property tax would that great nation, have been one per cent instead of threequarters; that his influence had been for the people, except in one instance when he had saved the Ministers from a vote of censure. an act which he had reason to regret; that after all he had done to save the Ministry and to help their measures through, they repaid him by making false charges against wait's charter of prosperity. The illumination of many of the private residences was, considering the short notice, extremely beautiful. On Nuuanu Avenue, we noticed among the residences conspicuously illuminated, those of Messrs. West, Nott, Brewer, Hutchinson, Jones, Whitney, Afong, Hall, Hoffmann, J. O. Carter, McIntyre, H. A. P. Carter, and Mrs. Von Pfister, while below Beretania street, to the wharf, each side of Nuuanu was a perfect blaze of Chinese and colored lamps, and on the front of Dillingham & Co's, store was suspended a pyramid of variegated lights. Emma Square was also tastefully decorated with a profusion of colored lanterns, which as they hung among the trees and shrubbery gave an aspect of rare beauty to that little sylvan retreat, which, unfortunately was missed by most, as the procession did not pass that way. Among the finest sights was Mrs. Irwin's residence, on the corner of Beretania and Fort streets, which had a light to every pane of glass in the house. Altogether the display was very satisfactory, and gave unmistakable evidence of the manner in which the news was received.
